Barbara

For your information, I have recently forwarded a detailed letter to Paul Offit regarding the arbitrary second dose of the live Measles/Mumps/Rubella (MMR) vaccine. I have also posted an article about this on my website, including a link to the letter: http://over-vaccination.net/2013/09/06/paul-offit-and-the-mmr-booster/

There are further arguments I wish to make about this subject, but this three page letter summarises some major issues from my perspective.

I suggest this is a side of the MMR situation which has had little airing, and the general public is not being properly informed about this matter. Certainly parents of small children are not being properly informed about their options in regards to titre testing. There may also be legal aspects to be investigated.

I am also investigating other vaccine products, in particular annual influenza vaccination and controversial 'gain of function' research, plus HPV, pertussis 'booster' and companion animal vaccination.

It's all part of the big picture regarding the very lucrative and burgeoning vaccine industry... It's quite startling to discover that enormous power is being wielded by a few well-funded 'experts', and the impact this is having on mandated medical interventions for millions of people around the world...

I would welcome your thoughts on my letter to Paul Offit.

My other arguments about over-vaccination can be viewed on my website: http://over-vaccination.net/
