

Over-vaccination of pets – an unethical practice

Elizabeth Hart

Over-vaccination of companion animals, and exploitation of pet owners, is big business, worth billions of dollars on an international basis.

In Australia, pet owners Bea Mies and Elizabeth Hart have been campaigning for ethical and evidence-based vaccination of companion animals. As a result of their persistence, change is slowly happening in companion animal vaccination practice. It is a disgrace that members of the public have to be the leaders for change due to the failure of self-interested experts/professionals in the veterinary vaccine industry.

In August 2010, CHOICE, the consumer watchdog, took up the matter of over-vaccination of pets i.e. Pet vaccination: Over-vaccinating your pet could be harmful to their health as well as your own hip pocket.

The ABC also reported on this story in October 2010 i.e. Questions raised over pet vaccination

Elizabeth Hart's essay "Over-vaccination of pets – an unethical practice", first circulated in June 2009, provides some background on this subject.
